3. Conclusion

Throughout the academic year, the Concert and Artistic Activity Department organized and carried out significant cultural and charitable events, including a benefit concert in support of a conservatory student. These events involved active participation from the Conservatory's creative ensembles, soloists, and students from various departments.

Since the beginning of the academic year, the department has organized more than 90 concerts, festivals, masterclasses, and other cultural initiatives.

Additionally, soloists and ensembles of the Conservatory took part in numerous competitions, festivals, and concerts, gaining valuable professional experience and receiving motivation for further artistic development.

SWOT ANALYSIS

Strengths	Weaknesses
– High creative potential of students and faculty – Existence of stable and active creative ensembles – Active participation in city-wide and national cultural events – Support from university administration.	– Limited financial and material resources – Insufficient technical base (equipment, props, etc.) – Work overload of department staff during peak periods.
Threats	Opportunities
– Decrease in funding for cultural initiatives – Competition with other cultural institutions – Instability of external conditions (e.g., public health situations) – Possible staff turnover or shortage of young professionals.	– Expanding collaboration with external organizations and concert venues – Attracting grants and sponsorship support – Development of national and international projects – Growing interest of youth in creative self-expression.
